To whom it may concern,

This is to certify that Mr. Li Jian has been awarded a scholarship by the University of Chinese Academy of Sciences (UCAS) to participate in a Joint PhD Training Program in the United States of America as a visiting PhD student. The awardee was selected through a rigid academic evaluation process organized by UCAS in 2019. The scholarship covers the returning international airfare and the living stipend. The stipend is USD1900 per month, including health insurance, for a period of 12 months. UCAS makes the payment to the awardee every month.

UCAS is a higher education institution established with the approval of the Ministry of Education, focusing on graduate education. In order to enhance the cultivation of talented young researchers in UCAS and to advance cooperation between UCAS and leading universities and research institutions, UCAS has carried out the Joint PhD Training Program since 2006, which sponsors outstanding doctoral students to pursue study abroad.

This document is only valid on condition that awardee arrives in the United States of America no later than the end of April 30, 2020.
